excerpt from the dialogues of plato vol 4 of 5 translated into english with analyses and introductions the philebus appears to be one of the later writings of plato in which the style begins to alter and the dramatic and poetical element has become subordinate to the speculative and philosophical in the development of abstract thought great advances have been made on the protagoras or the phaedrus and even on the republic but there is a corresponding diminution of artistic skill a want of character in the persons a laboured march in the dialogue and a degree of confusion and incompleteness in the general design as in the speeches of thucydides the multiplication of ideas seems to interfere with the power of expression instead of the equally diffused grace and ease of the earlier dialogues there occur two or three highly wrought passages pp 15 16 63 instead of the ever flowing play of humour now appearing now concealed but always present are inserted a good many bad jests as we may venture to term them 17 e 23 a 24 b 29 b 30 e 34 d 43 a 36 c 46 b we may observe also an attempt at artificial ornament 43 e 53 d e and far fetched modes of statement 48 d as well as other defects of style which remind us of the laws the connexion is often abrupt and inharmonious 24 c etc and at 42 d e 43 a 48 a b 49 50 far from clear many points require further explanation e g the reference of pleasure to the indefinite class 31 a compared with the assertion which almost immediately follows that pleasure and pain naturally have their seat in the third or mixed class these two statements are unreconciled in like manner the table of goods does not clearly distinguish between the two heads of measure and symmetry and though a hint is given that the divine mind has the first place 22 c nothing is said of this in the final summing up about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works illustrated 1874 edition excerpt is no greater good in a state than that the citizens should be known to one another when darkness and not light reigns in the daily intercourse of life no man will receive the honor of which he is deserving or the power or the justice to which he is fairly entitled wherefore in every state above all other things every man ought to take heed of this that he have no deceit in him but that he is always true and simple and that no other deceitful person takes any advantage of him and now comes the movement of the pieces from the sacred line as in the game of draughts the form of constitution being unusual may excite wonder when mentioned for the first time but upon reflection and trial will appear to us if not the best to be the second best and yet a person may not approve this form because he thinks that the sort of legislation is ill adapted to a legislator who has not despotic power the truth is that there are three forms of government the best the second and third best which we may just mention and then leave the selection to the ruler of the settlement following this method in the present instance let us speak of that state which is first and second and third in excellence and then leave to Cleinias or to any one who has any choice the selection of that form of polity which he approves in his own country the first and highest form of the state and of the government and of the law is that in which there prevails most widely the ancient saying that friends have all things in common whether there is now or ever will be this communion of women and children and of property in which the private and individual is altogether banished from life and things which are by nature private such as
